

June 14, 2018

Traceability News - week ending 6/16/18

This message is part of a weekly series of updates on Washington's traceability system.

---

Statement Regarding Effort to Refresh Traceability API Keys

There has been speculation among the cannabis industry that an incident has occurred within the state traceability system.

LCB received a notice last week that there had been unauthorized efforts to tamper with data derived from commercial software that integrates with the state traceability system.

LCB maintains measures to safeguard traceability information. The system is currently functioning normally. We will continue to monitor.

As a security precaution to ensure the traceability system is not compromised, the LCB and Leaf Data Systems are asking integrators to work with their customers to reset API keys.

---

Washington State Liquor and Cannabis Board

June 14, 2018

Traceability News - week ending 6/16/18 This message is part of a weekly series of updates on Washington's traceability system.

Statement Regarding Effort to Refresh Traceability API Keys

There has been speculation among the cannabis industry that an incident has occurred within the state traceability system. LCB received a notice last week that there had been unauthorized efforts to tamper with data derived from commercial software that integrates with the state traceability system.

LCB maintains measures to safeguard traceability information. The system is currently functioning normally. We will continue to monitor. As a security precaution to ensure the traceability system is not compromised, the LCB and Leaf Data Systems are asking integrators to work with their customers to reset API keys.